The Road To Guantanamo at San Francisco Friends Center, 65 Ninth Street (near Mission, two blocks from Civic Center BART)

This riveting docu-drama by Michael Winterbottom and Mat Whitecross tracks the true story of three young British men of Pakistani descent who got caught up in the chaos of the U.S. invasion of Afghanistan. The film, based on hundreds of hours of interviews, mixes excerpts from them with reenactment scenes so real you completely forget you're not watching the story unfolding live. The New York Times called the movie "amazing – a film of staggering force." FILM, REFRESHMENTS, AND DISCUSSION ABOUT PLANS FOR JAN. 13 AND WHAT YOU CAN DO TO HELP SHUT DOWN GUANTANAMO AND STOP TORTURE.

Saturday, January 13, 1-3 pm

Non-violent participatory protest, street theater, and leafletting at Union Square, San Francisco (Geary Street side, opposite Macy's).

Wear orange, if possible, and bring musical instruments. We'll have orange jumpsuits, a life-like replica of a Guantanamo cage, and ribbons and literature to help engage passers-by and encourage them to become active in efforts to shut down the camp, end torture, and repeal the Military Commissions Act of 2006.
IN CASE OF RAIN, MEET AT POWELL ST. BART, IN THE UNPAID AREA OF THE STATION.
